The potential for reducing marine mammal bycatch mortality and associated costs through market-based solutions to human-caused mortality. The global ban on commercial longline fishing in the waters of the Northeast Pacific Ocean was first implemented under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) in 1989. In response to this and numerous other regional regulations, the Northeast Fisheries Council in the United States implemented a fishery recovery plan (FIP) to enhance the survival rates of commercially valuable northeast Pacific stocks of marine mammals.
