Map Locator is a really simple and useful utility tool for Windows that enables you to locate your device on a map, using the device's GPS coordinates. Map Locator was initially developed to be used with Skype, which allows you to know the geographical location of your friends and contacts, so that you can easily send them messages at the right time and place. There is a Map Locator version for Windows (as mentioned) and one for Android, which is known as "Skype". With this last version, users can see on the map the geographical coordinates of both the "Skype" contact list as well as that of the ones they have already exchanged messages with. Install and run this software Map Locator is a small but efficient application that can be used in a plethora of applications (in fact, it is even possible to use it with Skype), which enables you to show your device's GPS coordinates on a map. In order to be able to obtain these coordinates, the map needs to be enabled in the device's settings. The program can be run from the file system with no installation process needed. Moreover, there are no buttons or other menus that can be clicked on, but the program functions automatically once you start it, by indicating the location of your device on a map. What's New In Map Locator?

It is an useful and indispensable software utility that reveals a current location of any PC in order to track it in real-time. Lets you view the map on your desktop Using Google Maps with VDMTaskbar does exactly that. Specifically, the app easily adds an icon to the taskbar that will display a map of the current location in real-time. More precisely, you can click on the icon to view the map of your location. You can also zoom in and out, as well as pan the map by clicking on it. However, it is also important to note that the program is fully functional irrespective of whether the internet connection is unavailable or your PC is offline. Additionally, when you add multiple locations to the Favorites List, the map can be displayed for all of them at once. You can see individual maps as they are opened in the application, and save them as regular icons in the folder as well. Shows the location in real-time The fact that the program can identify the location of your PC in real-time as you open it is one of its best features. It helps you use your PC in various applications, as well as in situations where the internet connection is temporarily lost or unreliable, as it will show the last seen location. In comparison, other apps, such as Bluetooth Tracker, use a static icon, not a map, that can be changed by the user at any time. This program is useful when you need to know where your PC is right now. It can be used, for instance, when you are visiting a friend's house or when your friends ask you to meet them at a place you have never visited before. With that said, VDMTaskbar shows only the last known location of your PC. Therefore, it may be helpful when you are searching for it from a place you have visited before. Designed for beginners One of the most attractive features of VDMTaskbar is that it works on both 32-bit and 64-bit versions of Windows 7, Windows 8 and Windows 10. Additionally, you can install it in the Startup folder, and change its Startup type from “autorun” to “manual”. The program also requires the .NET Framework to run, so it can be downloaded right from the start. It is available for a one-time purchase of $14.95. Dynamic desktop activity monitor As previously mentioned, VD
