The Hyperdrive Kickstarter campaign is a massive risk and can bring tens of thousands of dollars into the game, but will also make or break the project. Any support from you, our Kickstarter patrons, is going to make a huge difference in determining the outcome of the campaign. In case you missed it, here's our Kickstarter video: Lossless Tracks from Hyperdrive in the Steam Store: Our Old Hyperdrive Page: Kickstarter Update #3 \(Part 2\) - Our Demo is Live! The Hyperdrive demo is now available for download! We've removed the "DemonDeath" demo and added the "Hawkgard" demo to the current updates, along with the official release of the demo, so it should be a little more manageable! You should see the demo as a separate item in the "Play" list of your game's main menu. The new demo was a result of plenty of testing and feedback that we received during the Kickstarter campaign. A beta version of the demo with a few bugs was finally ready to go, and we put it online for the first time last night. So far, the feedback has been really positive. We want to thank you for the patience, support, and encouragement we've received over the last few months. We really appreciate it! The more feedback we get, the better we can be for that demo and for the remainder of the game's development. We'll update this page once the demo is released to the public. In the mean time, we've got a few more updates planned for you. First, we're going to start working on localization. So far, we have translations in English, German, French, Italian, and Spanish. With that in mind, we'll be creating a new track for each language and leaving the other tracks in their native languages. This should make the game easier to play in any language, and allow you to more easily share it with friends and family around the world. Next, we're planning on adding more new tracks to the main

On a mild late spring afternoon in Neah Bay, Washington, I meet, shake hands, and chat with U.S. Marine Col. Steve Edgett, commander of the First Marine Aircraft Wing, as we sit next to each other in the cockpit of a 1970s era military Cessna T-37 trainer. The lessons learned this day will ultimately guide and fortify the already deeply ingrained practice of the U.S. military. The week I am here, Colonel Edgett visits Neah Bay for five days. He brings us with him for the day. Two of our squadron lieutenants, both West Point graduates, are with us. Edgett has represented the Marine Corps in Israel several times before, and he tells us of his experiences upon landing on the soil of what most Americans refer to as a terrorist state. Lieutenant Lyman McMullen, Marines Our meeting with Colonel Edgett is held on a somewhat small side-street not far from the main street of Neah Bay. As he emerges from the Cessna, Lt.
McMullen and I are already close to achieving something that could have easily been deemed irrational: introducing a 22 year-old light infantry officer to a combat veteran who has run for and held the office of commandant of the Marine Corps. As I begin to get acquainted with Corporal McMullen, I notice I am only able to look directly at the clear sky above us, instead of the ground below our feet.
As Colonel Edgett leans in to close the door of the airplane, I experience an overwhelming feeling of desire. I am almost literally drawn to my feet by the the pull of the earth. Nothing short of sheer embarrassment could have kept me from being sucked back into it. Holy Land, Israel - Feb, 1977 Colonel Edgett departs us in the front seat of the Cessna, our closed and locked doors soon following.
We start for the airport. Sitting at the controls is obviously a young person. In our group we

EDIT: I wanted to let you all know that After he submitted and got permission, I was able to add the Aardman stop motion models of the characters. I added in all the Aardman Stop motion models instead of the model they used. Sorry for the oversight, I should have kept myself informed. I am able to provide the models if anyone wants them. LEGO Dimensions is the all-new "shared play" LEGO videogame for the PlayStation 4 and PlayStation 3 video game consoles. Players can play alone or with up to four friends in any of the playable characters and game modes in both local and online multiplayer. LEGO Dimensions' shared play mode has players in both PS4 and PS3 consoles working together to solve exciting missions. When one player finishes the game, they instantly unlock that character in the other consoles as an access code. There are over 60 playable characters in the game including favorites and fan-favorites from LEGO DC Super Heroes, LEGO Harry Potter™, LEGO Ninjago™ and more. Download the Demo right now for FREE and get 2 exclusive playable characters, Finn from LEGO DC Super Heroes and Clementine from The LEGO Movie™! Gameplay: LEGO Dimensions plays similar to other LEGO games where players take on the role of one of over 60 available characters. Players must team up with up to four friends in a variety of game modes like Story, Minifig Rescue, Minifig Rampage, Lego Battle, and more. In addition to a new shared play mode where players can create their own teams online, players can either play solo in single player or in a local multiplayer session where the host will play in split-screen with a friend in one console while the other plays on the other console. Players can work together to solve puzzles and complete missions, but if one player falls the game ends for that player. Players can also play through the missions in any order that they wish with the options to Complete the Story, beat the missions in the fastest time possible, access certain characters and items early, and more. There are three main game modes in LEGO Dimensions. Story - The story mode in LEGO Dimensions has players solve puzzles to restore harmony across the LEGO universe by meeting the LEGO Master Builders and the mischievous Master Builder Ethan (voiced by Martin Jarvis). Minifig Rescue - Minifig Rescue has players work with their friendly neighborhood minifig and one of the 40+ characters and mini
